Ames Chapter No. 158

August, 1991

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Summer is almost over and we are getting ready to start our first full year as an ASWA chapter. On July 18 we held our planning meeting with a salad supper potluck at Brookside Park. It was lots of fun and the food selection was terrific. Hopefully, we can have another one sometime and more people will be able to enjoy it.

The planning meeting generated goals for each committee along with action plans. We agreed to have a membership drive at the September meeting. Every member who brings a guest will have her name placed in a drawing with the winner getting a free dinner at the next ASWA meeting she attends. So start planning now to bring a guest (or two or three). Your name will be entered once for each guest you bring. The prospect list used in the chartering process will be made available at the August 8th meeting to review for possible guests.

If you are interest in serving on any committee, please let a member of the Board know. Being involved in the organization is the best way to get the most out of your dues.

Speaking of dues, please be sure to pay them to Kim Supercynski as soon as possible and avoid the late payment fee.

I'm looking forward to lots of enjoyable networking this year. See you at the August meeting.

Karen Jacobson

Bylaws Committee: The chapter approved the by-law changes as set out as the goal for this committee.

Education & Legislation Committee: This committee's goals were not accomplished. Next fiscal year this committee plans to hold an educational seminar.

Finance Committee: Ellen Rasmussen set up the chapter's banking records on her computer. Also, one dollar was added to the cost of the meals at the membership meetings to help build up the treasury balance.

Hospitality Committee: Norma Seifert reported that her committee met it's goals. Name tags were made and the random table setting was used. Also, mentors were provided to the new members. The meeting themes were not used, however, because they were decided not to be appropriate.

A notebook was prepared documenting speaker handouts, newspaper articles, etc. The chapter also had a joint meeting with the Des Moines chapter, which proved to be successful. One suggestion was for more input from the members on speaker topics.

Public Relations Committee: Joan Rost reported that her committee successfully prepared the chapter brochure. One of next year's goals will be to have a public relations dinner.

A possible topic for the joint meeting with the ISU accounting club is "the history of women in accounting".

The next membership meeting is Thursday, July 18th at Brookside Park. The change of records will occur at this meeting, along with a potluck.

The Prairie States Conference is June 21st and 22nd in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

PERMISSION NEEDED

(Savings Business News, Summer 1991)

Customer loyalty is built primarily on the quality of service that a business provides. However, a potential customer's first impression is often based on the feeling he or she gets upon walking through the door - the feeling created by the establishment's ambiance. This ambiance is the result of a combination of factors, including the business' size, its decor, and in many cases, its music.

Music is now recognized by a growing number of industries as a major contributor to the atmosphere of an establishment. Unfortunately, the growth of music use by American businesses has not been accompanied by an increased awareness of the obligations that go along with music use. Because music is so accessible today, many business owners believe that the use of music is free. In reality, music is a product and must be paid for as any other business expense.

The United States Copyright Law grants songwriters, composers and publishers the right to profit from their musical creations in the same way inventors are entitled to profit from their inventions. For the creators of music, this right is called the "performing right". It requires anyone who performs a musical work in public to first obtain permission from those who created it. In turn, the songwriter, composer, and/or publisher is entitled to receive compensation for the performance of this work.

Obviously, the task of identifying, locating and negotiating with each and every copyright holder for each and every song a business intends to use would be a time-consuming and expensive proposition. With this in mind, Congress recognized the need for performing rights societies. Songwriters, composers and publishers may affiliate with the organization of their choice. The U.S. Copyright Law recognizes three performing rights societies -- BMI, ASCAP, and SESAC. These organizations are granted the right to license musical performances on behalf of their respective songwriters.

If a business uses music -- whether from tapes, CDs, radio (over speakers) or live presentations, it must obtain permission to use this music. Your business may choose to contact the songwriters, composers, and publishers directly, or obtain a license agreement from the appropriate performing rights societies.
